Single Semester Solution Built for Maximum Impact

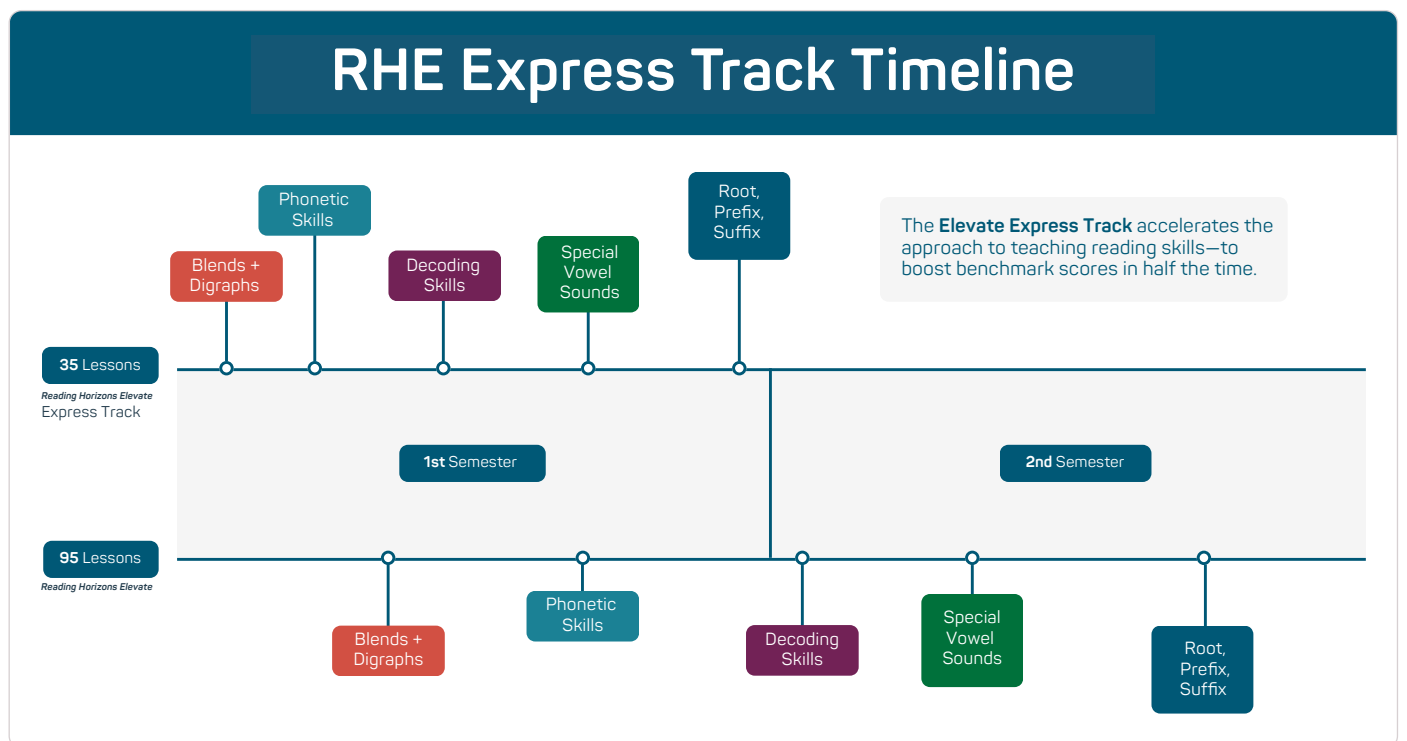

The Express Track framework and Structured Literacy program cover key foundational literacy skills using our research- and evidence-based versatile instructional method. The Orton-Gillingham-based method is taught explicitly, systematically, and sequentially, building from the simplest concepts to more complex ones. Students can make gains quickly, which increases their motivation and leads to improved reading ability.

Streamlined Lesson Plans for Accelerated Reading Success

Targeted lesson plans support students who are behind in reading by providing teachers with a turn-key instructional solution, including all necessary teacher and student resources. This proven learning path is designed specifically to help older learners enhance their reading skills.

Unlocking Phonetic and Decoding Skills for Reading Success

The Express Track offers a simplified scope and sequence to help students unlock English language patterns and structure. Readers who recognize and respond to letter and spelling patterns are more likely to succeed in both decoding and comprehension. This approach helps students quickly understand the core patterns that aid in automatizing word identification through a pattern approach. Our Five Phonetic Skills and Two Decoding Skills are the backbone of our method and provide a simple way for students to decode multisyllabic words without an added cognitive load.

Empowering Striving Readers with Multisensory Lessons

The instruction's effectiveness is based on method and teacher-led instruction using the gradual release of responsibility. This method is taught by leveraging multisensory techniques for student engagement and connection.

Interactive Student Software Personalizes Learning and Progress

Student software reinforces and follows the track of teacher-led instruction, allowing students to learn at their own pace and teachers to assess individual student needs immediately.

Fast-Track Intervention for Powerful Teaching and Learning Results

The key to the success of the Express Track is a consistent daily commitment, enabling students to complete the program in just one semester. It includes three days of direct instruction and two additional days of supported, extended transfer practice applying skills to decodable text.* Quizzes monitor progress throughout the semester and are available in digital and paper forms to ensure progressive success.
